

Together we make Sundsvall safer

It is a human right to feel safe no matter who you are and where you are.

That's why we are making a number of things to increase the security in our community.

We have divided the community into 14 different areas where each area has their own security group.

Included in these groups are, among others, policemen, staff at youth recreation centers, head masters, property owners, entrepreneurs and organizations.

The security groups' work involves everything from coming up with concrete proposals on changes in the environment, to be at various locations within the community in person, to meet and discuss with people.

Neighbourhood watch, live venues and building networks are obvious elements. The security groups also invite people for safe walks to map the security in their areas.

The idea of the "Safe Sundsvall" is to cooperate and use commitment to get more people to feel involved.

Basically it is about involving people in their everyday lives. Just getting to know and understand each other a little better makes a big difference.
